TOP MAN LIKELY FOR NATIONAL COACH POST

— By PAUL DEAN —

Any report or rumor as to what the Australian Federation will eventually do regarding the appointment of a national coach is mere speculation, ASF secretary Ian McAndrew said yesterday.

"This matter is under consideration and no final decision is likely for quite a while.

"The man we want for the post will have to be very well qualified with wide experience and a good command of English.

"Joe Vengios who did a marvellous job with our national team recently was highly recommended for the position by Jim Bayutti.

"But this is a mere recommendation and the ASF may not act on it."

McAndrew was commenting on a reported submission by the Australian Coaches' Federation to invite applications for the post from Europe and other parts of the world.

"We are well aware that there are several brilliant men capable of filling the job," McAndrew said.

"The question is whether they would be available to come to Australia."

McAndrew said he did not know of any submission by the Australian Coaches' Federation in this matter.

"They are welcome to make a recommendation and it will receive our fullest attention."

Vice-president of the Coaches' Federation, Joe Vlasits said yesterday the pending appointment should be examined from all angles.

"It's imperative that for once we look to the future, not just next week," he said.

"TOO HURRIED"

"While the performance of our national team is important, it shouldn't be regarded as the main function of a national coach.

"After all, how many full internationals does Australia play a year?

"Just because of the Asian tour in October there is no need to make a hasty decision that will bind the ASF for years.

"We support the recommendation that Vengios should go with the team to Asia but why not on a temporary basis?

"Naturally, he should be eligible to apply for the permanent position, together with anybody else. "I feel we should place ads in various countries to invite the best coaching talent available.

"This is the only way to make a major appointment. "Far too often in the past the various Federations made a choice in a hurry and regretted it at leisure.

"It's time we approached an important problem with more maturity."

Contest leaders crash

Some of the leaders "crashed" in Section 7 of the SOCCER WORLD-LA FIAM-MA Contest and the race is still wide open for the Alitalia return ticket to Rome.

It is possible — indeed, likely — that the still unchecked Section 2. coupons will decide the winner.

On these coupons readers had to forecast the final four placings in the various States.

There will be several more sections before the end of the contest.

The last one will concern the Australia Cup.

PETTY FEUDING CRIPPLES A.S.F.

Dissatisfaction with the function, role and sphere of operation of the ASF is widespread.

Strangely enough, the ASF is not only criticised by "outsiders" but by many of its own executives.

Petty jealousy between the States, fight for power and positions and personal conflicts just about cripple this organisation which was designed not only to carry out various administrative duties but also to set new courses for our development.

The blame for this lies squarely with the States.

After all, the ASF is nothing if not their co-ordinating body and if it doesn't function properly, the reason must be that it was never given sufficient jurisdiction and scope by the States.

These States — let's be frank about it — consider the ASF as a buffer-zone through which they can conveniently conduct their feuds and quarrels.

In some cases the States are not even very particular about whom they delegate to the ASF as their representative.

The current Australia Cup chaos bears this out.

One State delegate, entrusted with the responsibility of submitting a detailed plan for the Cup, could only produce a few handwritten scraps of paper on a school textbook — not advancing one single solitary concrete suggestion.

And for that, he had about six months . . .

There are only two alternatives: re-organise the ASF or scrap it.

We suggest the first of the two.

The secretary, an ardent believer in efficient administration and a brilliant organiser, has already proposed ways and means of achieving this.

If the States so far have not bothered to read his document, they should do so now.

Given a chance, the ASF could be turned into a proper authority on administration and planning, not just a battleground for interstate aspirations.

In its present pseudo-democratic form the ASF will never work.

If the majority of States are worried that they may have to hand over some of their power to the ASF — which they ought to, anyway — and decide against any streamlining, they should be honest enough to say so.

In that case there is absolutely no need for the ASF, and the organisation should be abolished.

But to pretend that all the faults of the ASF are self-generated and have nothing to do with the States is not only hypocritical, but also stupid.

This is how they stand in all States:

SYDNEY CLUB PATROL

Last week we got rapped over the knuckles by the ASF for referring to the Australia Cup as "suspended" The Cup, we were officially informed, was merely "deferred". So we checked up. The ASF executive wording, according to NSW delegate Tom Grimson, was "cancelled for 1967". Which is even more positive than suspended...

ST. GEORGE-BUDAPEST, hopeful of bringing out the crack Hungarian Ferencvaros in late January, are now trying to fix some dates for the tourists in Asia.

A fine gesture by a fine player. Australia's national team skipper, PAT HUGHES, last Tuesday gave up his lunch hour to address the Assembly of the Orange Grove Public School. The APLA star also presented the school with the Manchester United jersey he received from one of the British players after the game against NSW last month. The highly-prized shirt will either be raffled at the school or presented to Orange Grove's "best and fairest" soccer player this year.

Pan Hellenic officials ANDREW CARR and PAUL VLACHOS are due back from Greece next week.

Many fans complained bitterly at having to pay 60 cents for ADMISSION to most of the grass embankment at Mona Park, last Sunday. At Cumberland home games an extra 20 cents is required only for the section of the "hill" which includes seating. Melita Eagles, however, last Sunday charged extra from the scoreboard area on. A few irate spectators reported the fact to the Management Committee, after indignantly telephoning SOCCER WORLD.

JOHN GALAMBOS and DANNY CALDWELL, both ex-Sydney, now play in Newcastle.

PADDY BONHAM, the South Sydney-Croatia fullback, is out for the rest of the season. The unlucky Irishman damaged a cartilage in his comeback match against South Coast three weeks ago, in third grade, and underwent an operation last week at Wolper Jewish Hospital.

BOBBY BURGOYNE, spearhead of Pan Hellenic's attack a few years back, is amongst the goals in Newcastle. Bobby is now scoring strongly for Belmont-Swansea, winner of the 1967 Newcastle Ampol Cup.

The improved Polonia-NSW winger TONY WOODWARD is out of action for some time with a cartilage injury.

Former Canterbury goalie MAX LEMON will be in charge of the crew shooting a color film of the Admiral Cup yacht races in England.

Since APLA and Hakoah are due to play their deferred match on Sunday, July 30, at Lambert Park in opposition to the Pan Hellenic v. St. George match at Wentworth Park, how about the clubs getting together to stage a DOUBLE-HEADER? Both games on their own should draw just about the same crowd — approximately 5,000 spectators. Combined, at Wentworth Park, a 10,000-plus crowd would be assured. So how about it?

ROY BLITZ had to spend a few days in hospital following a badly damaged eye which he received in the match against Polonia. Roy may not be fit on Sunday.

JOHN KARYANNIS, the Pan Hellenic forward, has scored 13 competition goals, not 12 as shown on our goal-scoring list on page 4. The mix-up occurred in the match against Cumberland when we attributed one of his goals in error as an own goal by a Cumberland defender.

Amateur intersuburban Second Division LIVERPOOL

INTER failed to take the field last weekend against Arncliffe Scots, thus losing both matches on a forfeit.

One of the highlights of this weekend's round will be the THIRD GRADE clash between Cumberland and Croatia. Both teams are way out in front and Saturday's winner appears almost certain to win the premiership.

BILL HENNESSY, Balgownie's Public Relations Officer is really taking his team's defeats on the chin. Hennessy, to shame Balgownie into winning, has refused to shave until their long overdue victory. When that win does occur, Hennessy won't have any difficulty shaving his overflow beard off — he's a barber by trade!

The deferred game between Prague and Canterbury will be played at the Marks Field, under floodlights, next Wednesday, July 19.

All affiliated Federations have entered the 1967 NATIONAL YOUTH CHAMPIONSHIP so far, with the exception of Queensland. ASF officials hope that Queensland's nomination comes to hand shortly, as the championship is the most vital part of Australian youth policy.

MELITA EAGLES will use as alternate colors the strip which Manchester United played in for their first Sydney match.

Cardiff, coached by former Walsend and international wing half JACK O'BRIEN, is heading for relegation to the Northern NSW Second Division. The top places are shared by Mayfield, New Lambton South, Slavia, Maitland, Cessnock and South Walsend.

JOHNNY MORROW, younger brother of Walsend's international winger, Bruce Morrow, is coach of Walsend's successful under-21 side.

The NSW AMATEUR ASSOCIATION will arrange an evening during which life membership will be conferred on former president Jack Toole.

According to APLA president EDDIE PROVERA, the Sydney champions have tentative plans to go on a post-season overseas tour.

JIMMY PEARSON, the former Pan Hellenic and Australian World Cup forward, may return to Sydney at the end of the present South African season. Pearson, one of the current stars in the South African professional set-up, will bring at least one top British player operating in South Africa back with him to Australia.

How's that for keenness? LEN BELTOVSKI, the Cooma goalkeeper, travels 270 miles every week from Wollongong to play for Cooma in the ACT competition.

Don't forget that RADIO STATION 2KY has a five-minute soccer segment on their sports program every Saturday morning at around 11.10 a.m., direct from the Lakes Shopping Centre. Well-known sports commentator, "Tiger" Black, interviews a leading soccer player every week. And, of course, switch to "Tiger" and SOCCER WORLD news editor, Lou Gaudier, for the only soccer program in Sydney every Saturday at 6 p.m.

Melita Eagles have signed ALAN BANKHEAD from the Scottish Second Division club Dumbarton. They also signed John Doran who played in UK amateur ranks. Bankhead played in Melita's seconds last weekend.

After the gruelling match against Granville last Saturday, the BANKSTOWN players were taken for a good rest to the Billabong Motel at Casula for the night — to no avail, however, as the next day they were soundly beaten by Western Suburbs.

The PUNCHBOWL District Soccer Club is conducting a Metropolitan Championship knock-out competition for under-10 teams. The winner will receive the Raynors Trophy, which is valued at $800. Details from Fred Corben, Secretary of Raynors Tournament Committee.

It is rumored that the NSW FEDERATION has plans to use its share of the tour proceeds to buy or build licensed club premises.

The following COACH is interested in a coaching job in Australia: S. Montgomery, 2 East Drive, Merchant Tailors School, Northwood, Middlesex, England. He played as a professional for 14 years with Hull City Football Club, South End United Football Club and Cardiff City Football Club. During his time with Cardiff City, Cardiff City gained promotion to the First Division. On retiring from First Division soccer, he was appointed coach of Norwich City Football Club for a period of four years, in which period they gained promotion to Second Division and also won the Football League Cup. He holds the FA Coaching Certificate. He expects a remuneration for his coaching, of approximately $50 per week. Will any club interested in his services please write to him directly.

Let's not "kill" all tourists with our kindness

— By PAUL DEAN —

The ultimate success of tours by visiting teams largely depends on the standard of organisation handling the thousand and one details.

And as both the Scotland and Manchester United visits are generally viewed as great successes, the organisation must have been good, if not first class.

Much of the credit for this belongs to ASF secretary Ian McAndrew who, before the tours, spent weeks working out the most detailed schedules for the visitors.

This was indeed a masterpiece of planning — and laid the foundation for two rather involved tours which went off without a hitch.

In his work McAndrew had few helpers — but at least they were the hard working types.

It is doubtful if without Jim Bayutti, Ian Brissac, Julius Re, Kevin D'Arcy, Alan Woods, the State secretaries and some others, the tours could have really been successful.

NO HITCH

The W.D. & H.O. Wills organisation deserves more than some passing praise.

They not only underwrote the promotional cost of the tours (advertising, publicity, banquets, etc., to the tune of about $30,000) but they also mobilised their armada of skilled experts in all States.

Two Wills men, Phil May and Alan Hunter travelled with the teams all over Australia, making sure that there was no hitch anywhere in their planning.

And, fittingly enough, there wasn't...

However, there were a few aspects of the tours — especially of Manchester — that could have been better handled.

The social program of Manchester was overcrowded to the point where neither officials nor the players had an hour to themselves.

Taking the VIP treatment to absurd limits, they were dragged from party to reception to banquet, eating and drinking their way through the continent.

As one Manchester player said, we almost killed them with our kindness.

In my view there were far too many people who wanted to rub shoulders with Busby and Charlton and the others, crowding out the visitors at every opportunity.

It is only natural that our officials wanted to meet the visitors and they had every right to do so — but I still can't see why they had to be present everywhere, every time Manchester appeared.

Also, I think we had too many "chaperons" for the visitors and some of these, as the tour progressed, gradually began to regard themselves as part of the touring party.

As a result of all this hogging, some people who mattered never got near Manchester United.

The Sydney coaches, for example, approached Matt Busby to address them on the latest training methods and the systems he uses.

Such a dialogue between Busby and our coaches could have had a beneficial effect on our soccer.

But because of his other "commitments", Busby was unavailable...

The Press coverage during the tours was, quantitatively speaking, tremendous.

Day after day the newspaper coverage approached saturation point, especially when the visitors were in town.

PRESS COVERAGE

It was only towards the end that some writers began to dry up and run out of "story angles" and resorted to some questionable gimmicks and sensational treatment.

The aftermath of the Law-Giles clash was blown up with all aspects vastly exaggerated — including the sum of money donated to Giles by the Manchester boys.

One afternoon newspaper appropriated Manchester United for a day.

This is the third and last of a series of articles examining vital aspects of the recent international tours.

The idea, ostensibly, was to get their help for a coaching demonstration at Wollongong but the occasion turned out to be little more than a series of speeches and a gimmick to boost circulation.

The other afternoon paper, determined not to miss a trick, decided to serialise the book dealing with the Munich air crash of United — published many years ago.

LARGE CROWDS

They had the "good taste" to run these chapters just when United were in Sydney so that they could again be reminded, through painful words and agonising pictures, of that horrible tragedy.

Undoubtedly the most balanced coverage of any daily was that of the "Herald" — and one is tempted to add here: as usual.

They treated the tours as big stories but never once did they transgress the border which divides good and responsible journalism from cheap sensationalism.

The other news media, TV and radio also played their part, to varying degrees.

The ABC of course devoted the most time to the tours and the only quarrel one could have with them is the fact that at times the time selected for video-taped shows was too late.

Some TV stations would have given a better coverage than they actually did if they had had more co-operation.

Channel 9, for example, wanted to film an interview with Busby and a training session of United, and sent a full crew out to the location.

There, to their astonishment, they were told by Manchester officials that this can only be done — for a fee.

Sticking rigidly to the old principle that news should be accessible to all media, without charge, Channel 9 rejected the suggestion and scrapped all filming plans.

There were some complaints about the Manchester schedule but these were unavoidable.

Every State wanted a weekend fixture — for that, the tour would have had to be extended over eight weeks.

As it was, Sydney and Melbourne both had a weekday match while the others, with the exception of unlucky Perth, had a weekend program.

Attendances everywhere were above expectations; in Brisbane, for example, Manchester established an all-time soccer record.

The two Sydney matches produced 57 per cent of the total tour revenue — despite uncertain weather.

Had the Cricket Ground been available instead of the Showground — an abomination that should be condemned, bulldozed and forgotten — the Sydney crowds would have been even larger.

There is no doubt that the ASF secretariat did a magnificent job in organising the tours — with the co-operation of the States, the Wills and Ansett-ANA organisations.

However, they got so absorbed in the tour details that they had little time left to worry about anything else.

The stupendous blunder which caused the "suspension" of the Australia Cup for 1967 was one of the results of this preoccupation.

Perhaps the lesson is clear to one and all: it is unfair to ask the same officials to be involved in tour organisation and Australia Cup planning at the same time.

These are Western Suburbs, Illawarra, and Gladstone-Horsey.

The Canterbury Referees' Association, which was disaffiliated by the NSW Referees' Association, has eight referees who have completed Federation examinations.

They are already handling Federation fixtures.

The old competitive fire might not be burning quite so brightly nowadays, nor is the ambition which took him to the brink of top international soccer quite as strong.

But, it's a safe wager, that Sydney soccer clubs could do with more players of the calibre of Len Quested.

Quested, 38, was at his peak early in the 1950's when his dynamic wing-half play won him an English "B" International cap, and the reputation of being one of the finest players of his era.

Today, however, his eyes are on lesser targets. First and foremost, he intends leading the Cumberland third grade side to their second successive "premiership" win.

After talking to Quested recently at Mona Park it is easy to understand why he is regarded so highly by players and officials alike.

What makes a man of 38 — an old man by football standards — continue to play; and play with boys less than half his age?

"I love football, and I enjoy playing," Quested says, "but there's more to it than that."

"I believe these lads are at the stage where they must have someone experienced on the field to tell them what to do."

"Not because they lack experience, though that of course is true in many instances, but rather to steady them down when they get excited."

"Take, for example, the times when the opposition scores a goal. It's a natural thing for youngsters to get her up and start to argue."

"I step in and sort them out before they have time to start arguing."

"Then there is the case of 'the young fellow who gets a swollen head because he thinks he is a bit of a star."

"That, too, is easy to spot when you're playing among the lads, and can be quickly nipped in the bud," he said.

Quested considers that, in the third grade team, there are at least four or five players with top class potential.

"We believe players such as John Brennan, Bob Smith, who can still play under-16 competition matches, along with Stephen Warts, Bob Vincent and one or two others are certain to be top players if they continue developing as they have," he said.

"We have worked out a plan which should result in Cumberland being a real force in the First Division within five years."

"Our training is carried out on a co-ordinated basis, with my assistant David Goldie doing most of the actual coaching, under my supervision."

"This way we achieve some uniformity in all grades, and that's the only way to ensure getting what we want," Quested added.

Points shared

An ultimately happy split of points resulted in a match deferred earlier.

Prague v. P. Hellenic 1-1 (1-0)

Pan Hellenic pulled the match out of the fire in the last second, with a freakish goal from a throw-in when momentarily the Prague defence went into a nap.

The match was interesting and enjoyable with Prague playing the more sophisticated and Pan Hellenic the more dashing type of football.

Towards the end, Prague tired more than their opponents who pressed continuously, yet seemed quite incapable of breaking through.

Although Pan Hellenic's goal was a somewhat lucky one, the draw was a fair result.

Magpies swamped by hopeful stars

— By KEITH GILMOUR —

The apprentice player scheme announced by Western Suburbs Second Division club met with an immediate and favorable reaction.

Young players bombarded the club seeking interviews for the first four appointments.

A club spokesman said that applicants would firstly be culled down to 50, and a sub-committee would reduce these to about 15.

Magpies' coach Joe Marston would attend club matches without the players being aware of his presence, with a view to selecting the absolute cream of NSW football.

The club expects to have a number of educationalists co-opted to the appointment sub-committee, so that scholastic ability and aptitude can be assessed along with sporting prowess.

They may even have to combine education and football in order to meet the challenge imposed by today's trend towards higher studies.

Joe Marston is convinced that the old axiom that a "good footballer is born, not made" still holds good in 1967 and the years ahead.

He is looking for "Bobby Charltons", knowing that success for the Magpies will cement the scheme as a winner for Westerns and a winner for a dozen other Sydney clubs.

West's action is a logical extension of recent schemes and private initiative.

Ray Bastitz, Alan Westwater, Eric Campbell and others have recently shown what polish and overseas experience can bring.

We will soon know how much skill Vic Lowrie and Colin Beards gained in Czechoslovakia.

West will expand the scheme further in 1968.

It will be most interesting to see the reaction from other clubs in the next year or so.

The major country clubs, Adamstown, Wallsend, and South Coast United will have plenty to think about.

SUMMING UP THE MATCHES

Match rating: * * * *

Although it took Saints 67 minutes to get on top, their victory was never in doubt. Yugal fought heroically to hold their opponents for so long, but after Warren's goal they lost heart and went down tamely at the finish. Lion-hearted defence, superb goalkeeping by Petrou and some incredible near-misses by St. George kept Yugal's hopes alive until 23 minutes from the end. Saints' team-work, speed and individual skill were well above Yugal's but try as they may they were unable to convert their countless chances until Warren broke the ice. Yugal's gallant defence and the many goalmouth scrammages kept the crowd entertained for 90 minutes.

Match rating: * * * *

There was never any doubt that Cumberland's recent revival of fortunes would be halted: the only doubt was just how many goals Prague's forward-line would score before they realised they had to "back up" for a second time on Sunday. Superb individual displays by Scheinflug and Hoggart, and to a lesser degree, Lissing, lay the foundations for Prague's best performance of the season. Hoggart, in particular, was in great form and his third goal would have done credit to Bobby Charlton. Cumberland, for reasons best known to the players, abandoned the close marking, quick-tackling game which has been responsible for their success of late and tried to match Prague in football niceties and paid the penalty.

Crowd: 1,000.

— ALAN SPEERS

Match rating: * * *

This match was a triumph for Alan Westwater from the 11th minute, when he first-timed a half volley pass to Blitz on the left wing, to Laraman, to Smith, and into the net. Polonia was only 1-2 behind at half-time, but from then on the whole Pan Hellenic XI gave a rousing exhibition of precision team-work. Polonia's defence lacked system, even before referee Malcolm Buchanan ordered Richard Krawiarz and Frank Filok to take very early showers.

Crowd: 3,000.

Referee: M. Buchanan.

— KEITH GILMOUR

Match rating: * * *

An eminently fair result as the teams were very evenly matched in all departments. Both had the advantage in turn. Croatia were slightly on top in the first half, Canterbury had more of the play after the interval. Many chances went astray all through a game marred by shaky defences, both of which were lucky not to concede more goals. Canterbury were faster, more aggressive, Croatia more polished and systematic. Play was fast and exciting in the first half but became ragged midway through the second before both teams staged a grandstand finish.

Crowd: 2,900.

Referee: K. Lockrey.

— LOU GAUTIER

Match rating: * * *

This match never stirred any excitement, and at times was rather dull with most of the play taking place in midfield, but even so, APIA were superior in every department and only the tightness of the Melita defence kept them from winning by a bigger margin. APIA were in possession for most of the time and a brilliant display by Watkins, together with Hughes and Bottalico, held the weak Melita Eagles attack out of possession. The game however, was not one-sided as the few attacks Melita managed to mount were always fraught with danger. The erratic APIA forwards could have sealed the game much earlier, but were too anxious to shoot and missed badly when in a good position.

Crowd: 4,200.

Referee: A. Boskovic.

— CHARLES SPITERI

Match rating: * * * *

A first rate match with plenty of action from start to finish. Hakoah, with crisper movements, used their wingers to good advantage and held a slight edge in the first half which was highlighted by powerful shooting by Baartz which brought the best out of United 'keeper Nuell, who made a number of brilliant saves. Down 0-1 at the interval, Tristram equalised straight from the kick-off from a corner after his own good lead-up work. Barnett showed his best form of the season, resulting in the South Coast forwards getting on top in an action-packed second half. A draw, however, was a good result.

Crowd: 1,400.

LARGE CROWD MAY SEE APIA LOSE THEIR SECOND MATCH

— By PAUL DEAN —

With no issues firmly resolved, the competition is more interesting than ever.

This weekend St. George and Cumberland will double-up to make it yet another seven-match program.

The outstanding attraction of the round is likely to be the clash between APIA and Pan Hellenic which may draw a 10,000-plus crowd on Sunday.

The prospects:

Cumberland v. Croatia

While far away from one another on the table, both teams will fight for high stakes: survival by Cumberland and semifinals by Croatia.

At their home ground, Cumberland have never lost to Croatia in the past and no doubt they will strive for at least a draw.

D. GOLDIE (Cumberland)

The terrible drubbing they got from Prague may have traumatic effects on Cumberland in which case they could sink back to their pre-revival slump.

Croatia, some months ago Sydney's most successful "method team," have lost their touch and are plainly struggling to stay the pace with the leaders.

Only a supreme effort by Cumberland could give them some success here, which they so badly need.

Yugal v. Melita Eagles

A defeat in this match would send Yugal hurtling fast towards relegation.

And strange as it may be, this is quite likely to happen, for with their present team they seem inadequate to upset anyone else but their own supporters.

Melita, also on the modest side talentwise, at least have the spirit and a purpose which will probably save them from relegation.

Against Yugal they are certain to come out from their defensive shell to score a couple of goals which would net them the points.

Unless Yugal have "one of those days," they can expect to be run off their feet and concede victory.

St. George v. Canterbury

The last time the Berries beat the Saints was way back in 1960, so they really have the incentive this time.

St. George have now joined APIA in being a team capable of winning even when they play badly.

Their overall strength today is such that one way or another, they can dominate a match and force their opponents into errors.

Canterbury's remarkable recovery almost came to a halt last week when they survived only narrowly.

If one or two of their star forwards are absent through injury, they will almost certainly struggle even for a draw.

Polonia v. South Coast

Polonia's total collapse last week became absolute and if they don't look out, could soon be at the bottom of the table.

There must be something very wrong with a defence that concedes seven against the same Pan Hellenic which only flukes one against Prague the next day.

The Polonia forwards play it entirely by ear — and their hearing isn't the best.

South Coast have yet to win away from home though three times they forced a draw.

Z. NOWACKI (Polonia)

This may be another match in which they play with "safety first" though with a little enterprise probably could again both points.

Hakoah v. Prague

It sounds incredible but it's true: in all these last 10 years never once did Hakoah beat Prague at home.

And in their current form, there is no reason to suggest that they will improve this record now.

Their forward line is most unconvincing and lacking in power, speed and penetration.

Prague play fairly good football and their finishing is much improved since the arrival of Hoggart.

They could go pretty close to tossing Hakoah or at least grabbing a draw.

APIA v. Pan Hellenic

A 10,000-plus crowd should turn up to watch this all-action clash with so much bearing on the final four positions.

Not over-impressive in recent weeks, APIA cannot afford to lose if they want to make sure of their top placing.

But lose they may, against a very fit and enthusiastic Pan Hellenic which may rise to the occasion.

Spectators will be able to see Sydney's two best-scoring forward lines in action: APIA have netted 42, Pan Hellenic 44 times.

ROUND 16

Results between these two have always been utterly unpredictable and this applies again, but APIA shouldn't be too surprised to drop a point.

Cumberland v. St. George

Both teams will be doubling up and so the match may be a test of stamina and nerves — favoring perhaps the visitors slightly.

Last year the Saints couldn't beat Cumberland once and those three lost points cost them dearly in the premiership.

This time, with a new determination to take maximum points from lowly teams, the Saints may take revenge.

Warren and Cliss, who have developed a fine understanding may relish playing against the shaky local defence.

A great deal depends on their Saturday results for a win or a loss may put the teams in a very different mood.

St. George, with a far greater depth of talent, appear better equipped to recover rapidly from their previous day's encounter.

Hoodoo apart, St. George should triumph unless they are willing to be derided once again at Mona Park.

Raynor fills hot seat

George Raynor, the man who coached Sweden to the 1958 World Cup final and was decorated by King Gustav for his services to the nation's soccer, has taken over England's No. 1 hot seat, as team manager of Doncaster Rovers. Alick Jeffery's Fourth Division English team. The 60-year-old Raynor becomes Doncaster's eleventh manager in as many years.

Their own medicine?

The Scots certainly have the right idea... They expected Hungary for a full international on August 10. When the Hungarians recently informed the SFA that they can only send their Olympic team, the Scots told them that "either the full team, or nothing". Pity they are not so fussy about their own touring teams...

Admission charges to Scottish First Division have been increased by one shilling (12 cents) for next season. Cheapest entrance fee in 1967-68 will be 33 cents. The move caused a furore in Scotland and there are fears attendances next season may be affected.

● Pedro Manfredini, the ex-AS Roma and Venezia centre-forward, has been transferred back to his native Argentina at a modest $10,000. The ace goalscorer's new club is Racing Buenos Aires.

● The Hong Kong Youth team, one of Asia's best, has been invited to play in Thailand and Malaysia next month.

● Singapore will stage a mini-Asian Cup at the completion of the Merdeka Tournament at the end of August. The national teams of Hong Kong, Malaysia, Japan, Thailand and Singapore will compete there after their Merdeka commitments.

● Timo Konietzka, Germany's ace goalkeeper, will play in Switzerland, for Second Division Winterthur, next season.

● Aix-en-Provence, fourth in the French Second Division, will play in First Division next season. Aix, coached by Hungarian Bela Herczeg, won the promotion play-offs involving the third and fourth Second Division clubs and the teams that finished 15th and 16th in First Division. Nimes were relegated to Second Division.

● Turgay, Turkey's veteran international goalie, will be honored with a testimonial match at Istanbul next weekend. Eusebio will head a European XI which will play against a Turkish team captained by Turgay for the occasion.

● Did you know that since 1950 Italy has imported 50 Swedish players? Eleven of these came from Malmo.

● Borussia Dortmund were beaten 1-3 by Botafogo at Rio in the first match of their South American tour.

● John Walsh, an ardent Dundee FC fan, decided to give his new-born son 11 Christian names — all the surnames of the Dundee stars.

● Helenio Herrera's life story has been featured in a Spanish film, due for European release this week, called "Ditrambo."

● Palmeiras, the crack Brazilian team, lost their return match against the Japanese national team in Tokyo. The Japanese won 2-1, after losing the first game 2-0.

Sparta Prague miss "double"

Sparta Prague, the Czech champions, failed to pull off the "double". They were beaten by Spartak Trnava in the Cup final which was played on a home-and-away basis. Sparta won the first match 4-2, lost the return game 2-0. At the completion of the second match at Trnava each team took five penalties. Adamcsek converted all five for Trnava to win the Cup because Mraz of Sparta only managed to score four out of five. The 1967-68 Czech season will start on August 13.

Brazilian leader back

Dr. Paulo Machado de Carvalho, who master-minded Brazil's World Cup triumphs in 1958 and 1962, has been re-appointed in command of Brazil's preparations for the 1970 World Cup. Brazil, for the first time in 10 years, will have to take part in elimination rounds, starting next year.

African tournament

An eight-team tournament for African national teams starts in Zambia next week. Taking part are Zambia, Egypt, Ethiopia, Kenya, Tanzania, Congo-Kinshasa (Leopoldville), Dahomey and Gabon. The series are being staged to coincide with Zambia's Independence Day and will be an annual event — the only African tournament outside the African Cup, which is played every four years.

Germans' Asian tour

The West German amateur team will embark on an 18-day grand tour of Asia at the end of the year. The Germans, whose tour was organised by Detmar Cramer, will play against Burma in Rangoon on December 30; Thailand in Bangkok, January 3; Malaysia at Kuala Lumpur, January 6; Hong Kong, January 10; South Korea at Seoul on January 13 and Japan in Tokyo on January 17.

Official World Cup dates

FIFA and the Mexican organisers last week announced all the dates for the 1970 World Cup finals which will be played in Mexico City, Guadalajara, Leon, Monterrey, Puebla and another city still to be determined. Matches will be played on May 31 (opening ceremony at Mexico's Aztec Stadium), June 2, 3, 6, 7, 10, 11 (preliminary rounds), June 14 (quarterfinals), June 17 (semifinals), June 20 (third place play-off) and June 21 (final).

Italian market moves

Inter Milan have bought Bologna's dynamic centre-forward Harald Nielsen. The Danish goalgetter is Inter's only buy of consequence during the off-season. Herrera has also acquired two players from AS Roma — Colausig and Pellizzarra — but neither is expected to play in the first team. AS Roma have also sold Tamborini, one of the stars of their Australian tour last year, to Varese and have bought the Brazilian Jair from Inter, in part-exchange for Colausig and Pellizzarra.

Fiery Ferguson restless

Alex Ferguson, the Dunfermline star who scored most of Scotland's low tally in Australia, wants a transfer. "Anywhere," he told his manager, Willie Cunningham, "just away from here..."

Pan American Games

Twelve countries will take part in the Pan American Games at the end of this month at Winnipeg, Canada. They are: Canada, USA, Mexico, Costa Rica, Jamaica, Guatemala, Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, Colombia, Nicaragua, and Ecuador. Only amateurs are eligible and Mexico, Argentina and Brazil are the joint favorites. Argentina beat Mexico in the 1963 Pan American final.

Summer spell

Ferencvaros have a seven-point lead in Hungary at the halfway mark of the championship. The second round will start on July 30. Last year's champions, Vasas, are in fourth place.

MELBOURNE'S TWO BIG RELEGATION CANDIDATES

— From BOB LOW in Melbourne —

With only eight more games to be played in Melbourne's State League, the relegation issue mainly threatens two clubs, Makedonia and Alexander.

I am convinced this pair will fight out the battle to decide who goes down.

Both fall well short of the other clubs in skill, ability and teamwork.

Both clubs have reportedly spent a small fortune since the start of the season on local and overseas players.

Unfortunately, no great improvement has been achieved.

It could be that in the choice of new players, both Makedonia and Alexander have erred badly and coughed up plenty of cash in the process.

Makedonia imported almost half a team and a new coach from Yugoslavia and also bought Tom Stankovic from JUST, Ian Currie from Croatia and David Short from Slavia.

Only Currie, who has been a frequent scorer in their attack, has paid his way without much support.

The Makedonia defence is riddled with holes and their "goals against" total provides a grim picture.

Only the overworked George Cairns at stopper seems to have the necessary class for State League.

The club has also suffered heavily from a financial point of view with the heavy fine and bond placed on them after the Juventus game at Olympic Park.

The club management have certainly tried hard, no one will dispute that. But until they become more selective in their choice of players and learn to run their club along strict business lines, they will be in trouble as a State League club.

Alexander are very much in the same boat; in fact, I consider them to be even worse off than Makedonia.

While Makedonia are in their first season as a State League side, Alexander have had several years in elite company without once giving a hint that they would become some sort of a force with even a small measure of stability.

Each season has been a perpetual struggle to avoid relegation.

In most seasons they waited until their fate was in the balance before sending themselves almost bankrupt by bringing the biggest part of a new team from Greece.

Bogged down by management troubles in the past few years, Alexander also have plenty of problems on the field.

One in particular seems to be that they have too many players who are acting as "captain" during the games.

It's almost like an Irish Parliament: everyone talking and nobody listening.

It seems peculiar, however, that Alexander parted with inside-forwards Tommy Robertson and Billy McIvor, both of whom joined George Cross for big fees and both of whom are holding down first team places in the rejuvenated Cross side.

Like Makedonia, the Alexander defence has conceded a barrowload of goals though the recent acquisition of Johnny Margaritis from Hellas could steady them up.

Unless both teams instil some steadiness in their defences and introduce some finishers in their attacks in the next few games, the writing is on the wall for one or the other.

Who goes down from the pair is anyone's guess — but one almost certainly will.

Early kick-off is favored by fans

— From ALLAN CRISP in Adelaide —

Although the third round of the SA Federation Cup was an intrusion on the league series, it proved that the soccer public appreciate earlier kick-offs.

Last Saturday's cup games began 30 minutes earlier than the normal league match slot to allow for extra-time to be played in the event of draws.

In a fairly predictable round, only the Orange-Sturt v. Azzurri match ran into extra time.

The advocates of earlier league kick-offs were given more bullets to fire because of the favorable public reaction to the altered time.

An earlier finish would reduce the risk of games ending in failing light.

There seems little prospect of a change in starting times, however, because reserve and junior games are played as curtain-raisers on all grounds.

I would prefer to see only junior games for curtain-raisers with the reserve matches switched to other venues or even mid-week evenings.

It is more important for juniors to play before First Division crowds than for the reserve sides which, in the main, are comprised of former First Division players and a sprinkling of youngsters.

(The same sentiments apply in Sydney! — Ed.)

WA Hellas illustrated that there is a wide gap in standard between the best First Division teams and the bottom Second Division sides by thrashing South Adelaide 10-0.

The game ended on a farcical note.

When Hellas led 7-0 they swapped goalkeeper Sam Service with centre-forward, Tony Batchelor.

Within a minute of the positional change, Service scored with a good header.

Hellas then moved all their defenders into attack and their forwards into defence.

Competition for places in SA's High School and under-16 Youth teams is at fever pitch.

A total of 123 boys are currently training at Hindmarsh on Sunday mornings and Wednesday nights, in a bid for selection.

The High School team will play NSW in Adelaide at the end of next month.

The Youth team will travel to Sydney for the Australian Championship.

THIS IS GROUND FOR INSANITY

The Victorian Soccer Federation recently decreed that Campbell Reserve, the home ground of Alexander is unfit for State League matches and have juggled the fixtures around so that the Greek side play all their remaining home games at Olympic Park.

However, by the same stroke of the pen, Moreland still have a licence to play their First Division games at this same venue which suggests the Federation consider that a ground is not good enough for a State League game but it's still O.K. for a First Division match.

The condition of the Campbell Reserve ground which is shared by Moreland and Alexander has been for years a perennial problem before the start of each season.

Usually it was banned, but for some unaccountable reason and on occasion without a ground inspector even seeing it, the ban was lifted without any improvement being made.

As far as Moreland are concerned, they have no worries about bringing it up to State League standard.

They are among the "also rans" in the First Division and are possibilities for relegation to the Second Division.

But in turning a "blind eye" to the fact that it is also Alexander's home ground and accommodating them with a re-arrangement of the fixtures, the Federation are leaving themselves wide open in the future and causing a precedent they might regret.

— Bob Low.

Scot is more than fair compensation

The Melbourne defence has the best record in the State League.

One player who stands out and not merely because of his six foot-plus physique is centre-half Ashy Scott who has been with the club nearly three years and played with Forfar Athletic in the Scottish Second Division.

The regular pivot for his first two seasons with Melbourne, the Scot moved to wing-half and sometimes fullback on the arrival of Barry Taylor.

At the start of this season, as Taylor transferred to St. George-Budepest many of the Hungarian fans shook their head when Scott was moved back to centre-half.

Some were firmly convinced Melbourne would have to go into the market for a new centre-half and shift Scott back to wing-half.

Now it's a different story with the Melbourne fans.

They reckon Taylor isn't missed and are convinced that the Scot is better than his predecessor who went to Sydney.

Hakoah present a different picture.

How can a team which went undefeated in their first seven games with five wins and two draws to their credit and who in this period didn't concede a single goal fall from grace so quickly as Hakoah have done?

Still well placed in the league, they have dim hopes of a revival which would take them back on top.

What has happened to Hakoah may seem a mystery to many but I think several factors have contributed to their slide.

They suffered badly in their first landslide against Slavia when goalkeeper Mike O'Hara badly blotted his copybook by conceding two needless penalties.

Since then their defence has lost much of its sure-footedness and, in fact, in recent weeks has panicked in covering and clearing their lines.

The Hakoah attack which not so long ago was a devastating scoring machine seems to have lost touch, particularly striker and spearhead Jim Armstrong whose nightmare appearances against Manchester United seem to have whitened away most of his confidence.

Even the heavy grounds which should suit the well-built and experienced Hakoah side have had the opposite effect.

With more than a few players out of form the whole image of the team has been badly shaken and dented in recent games.

JOINT LEADERS FAVORED TO STAY WELL AHEAD

— By CHARLES SPITERI —

Granville's loss of a precious point against Bankstown and a great win by Western Suburbs over the same Bankstown were the main points of interest in a topsy-turvy weekend of surprise results.

The shock defeat of Hornsby by Marconi and the sound trouncing of Sutherland by Corinthians have reshuffled the competition table considerably.

Granville have now wrested the lead — on goal-average — from Manly and these two fine teams seem set for a battle royal for promotion in the weeks ahead.

Last week's games:

Bankstown v. Granville 1-1

Both sides played their best football of the season and a draw was a fair result.

Granville took the lead through a penalty early in the first half after V. Gallagher was heavily brought down in the Bankstown "box".

Bankstown, however, deservedly equalised a few minutes after the resumption when a perfect centre by Turnbull was neatly headed in by Bamforth.

In the closing stages of the game, Banks nearly scored for Granville but Jamieson cleared off the line and at the other end Pontekos made a brilliant save off Turnbull.

Bankstown: Friedl, Jamieson, Fitzgerald, McDermott, Hinkman, White, Madden, Grange, Bamforth (1), Turnbull, Clarke.

Granville: Pontekos; Anderson, Pendleton; Dean, Lorenzuta, Creilly (3, penalty); J. Gallagher, Banks, V. Gallagher, Tamandi, O'Neill.

Marconi v. Hornsby-NE 2-1

A goal in each half by their coach Vasvary earned Marconi another two valuable points at Marconi Oval.

Marconi controlled the midfield for most of the game and never allowed the Hornsby forwards to settle down.

The first goal was scored by Marconi early in the first half, but Hornsby equalised when a corner kick by Maughan was converted by Dickerson.

Marconi's winning goal was scored in the 69th minute when Vasvary collected a loose ball and drove it into the net.

Marconi: Langelaar; Napta, Scotti, Shultz, Milani, Okorn; Vasvary (2), Vladek, Little, S. Zorato, Lindsay (J. Zorato).

Hornsby: Legg, Lapwood, Hogan, Maughan, Booth, Hughes; Brown, Ingfield, Bastas, Shields, Dickerson (1).

Lane Cove v. Manly 2-3

Although at times fast, this scrappy game never stirred any great excitement.

Lane Cove took the lead through a penalty after only six minutes, but two goals from the Jones brothers put Manly in the lead at half-time.

Soon after the resumption Lane Cove came back and equalised, but a few minutes later were unlucky to lose their inside-forward Nadi and had to battle the rest of the game with 10 men.

Manly scored the winning goal midway through the half with a good goal by Hughes.

Lane Cove: Lee; Clarke (Holmes), Gumble; Carter, Mitchell, Aird; Cooper (1), Jagger (1, penalty), Foster, Nadi, Thomson.

Manly: Tunnman, McGrath, Brooks; Vernils, Campbell, Freeman; R. Jones (1), Nutt, G. Jones (1), Hughes (1), Waller.

Lane Cove v. Marconi 1-2

Marconi won their second game of the weekend rather easily, and with more effective forward play would have scored a much bigger win.

Marconi led 1-0 at half-time and made it 2-0 in the second half before Lane Cove's Jagger reduced the lead.

In the last 15 minutes, Lane Cove attacked frequently and a shot by Cooper nearly got the equaliser but Okorn cleared off the line with Langelaar out of position.

Lane Cove: Lee; Holmes, Gumble; Carter, Mitchell, Aird; Cooper, Jagger (1), Foster, Hough, Thomson.

Marconi: Langelaar; Napta, Scotti, Shultz, Milani, Okorn; Vasvary, Vladek (1), Little (1), Zorato, Lindsay (Giacometti).

Western Suburbs v. Bankstown 4-1

Bankstown were the better team but lacked punch in attack.

West's new forward, Peter Payne, made a very promising debut and added much needed thrust in the forward line which functioned more effectively.

Whiteside opened the score for Wests with a magnificent shot from 20 yards in the 18th minute and by half-time Wests were in a commanding position, leading 3-0.

Late in the second half Wests made it 4-0 and Bankstown could only get their consolation goal in the last minute when Bamforth's 25-yard shot was misjudged by Iro.

Western Suburbs: Iro; Bastian, Apostolidis; Holmes, Bicker, Dyer; Payne, Boskloper (1), Whiteside (2), Davies (1), Smit.

Bankstown: Friedl; Jamieson, Fitzgerald; McDermott, Hinkman, White; Madden, Grange, Bamforth (1), Turnbull, Clarke.

Sutherland v. Corinthians 1-3

Generally, Sutherland played the more constructive football, but Corinthians were far more opportunistic.

Derek Griffin gave another superb display and the Sutherland forwards could never get past him.

Corinthians' forwards, usually goal-shy, did very well to convert their chances into goals, two of which went within the space of three minutes.

Sutherland: Pines; Turner, Rattenbury; O'Brien, O'Reilly, Griffiths, Davidson, Shrubsole, Roach (1), Corfield, S. Cuditi.

Corinthians: Griffin; Clarke, Williams; Snee, Russell, McKnight; Fanning (1), Smith, Orr (2), Amey, Woods.

North Bankstown v. Blacktown 4-0

Four goals from centre-forward Roberts — two in each half — sealed another good win for North Bankstown at George Green Oval.

Blacktown were no match for their youthful opponents who outran and outplayed them in every department.

North Bankstown: Howes; Baber, Cleverly; Watson, Tyas, Thorpe; Duncan, Buckley, Roberts (4), Scabill, Mula.

Blacktown: Beczney-Zsonbok; Italo, Putne, Biddle, Wilkins, Cousins; Stone, Dolan, Murray, McDonald, Mikolajczyk.

Granville v. Balgownie 2-0

The game was tense, fast and tough with hard tackling on both sides.

After a scoreless first half, Granville gained the upper hand and scored two good goals.

Balgownie's goalie, Jones, was by far the best man on the park.

Granville: Pontekos; Anderson, Pendleton; Dean, Lorenzuta, Creilly; J. Gallagher, Dupont, V. Gallagher (Baaks (1), Tamandi, O'Neill (1).

Balgownie: Jones; Gibson, Isedale, Smister, Moon, Tolson; Whitehead, Carruthers, Large, Thommeny, Del Santo.

North Bankstown v. Blacktown 4-0

Four goals from centre-forward Roberts — two in each half — sealed another good win for North Bankstown at George Green Oval.

Blacktown were no match for their youthful opponents who outran and outplayed them in every department.

SECOND DIVISION PREVIEW

The clash between Manly and Bankstown at Graham Reserve should highlight this round.

In the first round Manly crushed Bankstown 7-1, but are unlikely to win so easily this time although favored to win.

Western Suburbs, in really fine fettle, should be too solid for the exuberant North Bankstown.

Hornsby, at Pennant Hills Oval, should win a close tie against Sutherland, and leaders Granville should repeat their first round performance against Blacktown and win easily while Corinthians should have little trouble against Lane Cove.

The improving Balgownie may add another two points to their tally at Marconi's expense.
